Narrative:

A Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department Rescue Helicopter airlifted a stranded hiker from the remote area of Mount Baden Powell in the Angeles National Forest early this morning. The hiker had become lost and disoriented in the early evening on Monday night and summoned help via a personal locator beacon. The Sheriff's Antelope Valley Search and Rescue Team was notified and began a search for the hiker in the rugged terrain at approximately 10:00 PM. They hiked into the early morning hours and located the stranded hiker along a cliff in very rugged terrain. A sheriff's rescue helicopter was dispatched and extracted the hiker and rescue team at 7:00 AM. The hiker was uninjured and complained of minor dehydration. He was treated by Emergency Services Detail Paramedics and released to the search and rescue team members.
